

Arrowfeather Threawn

Aristida purpurascens

A member of the grass family, this perennial is often overlooked. This is a clump forming grass with seed spikes formed in late summer. This a good plant in the middle to front of a perennial border providing autumn and winter interest. In its native habitat, this plant can be found in dry pine woodlands and sandhills.

- Perennial
- Grows 1-2 ft
- Found in open, sandy soils,

| | | | | | | | | | | | |
|-----|-----|-----|-----|-----|------|------|-----|------|-----|-----|-----|
| Jan | Feb | Mar | Apr | May | June | July | Aug | Sept | Oct | Nov | Dec |
|-----|-----|-----|-----|-----|------|------|-----|------|-----|-----|-----|

Flowering Time