

Field Lovegrass

Eragrostis elliottii

This grass – like its purple relative – is also a larval host for the Zabulon skipper butterfly. Old growth should be cut back in late winter to early spring to give way to spring growth. Leaves are blue-green and flowers are a fluffy white. Flowers are borne on long, graceful stalks that dance with the wind. Birds and other wildlife feed on the seeds. Plants are deer resistant.

- Perennial
- Grows 3 feet
- Found in flatwoods, sandhills, prairies, hammocks

Jan	Feb	Mar	Apr	May	June	July	Aug	Sept	Oct	Nov	Dec
-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	------	------	-----	------	-----	-----	-----

Flowering Time